STATEMENT OF FACTS

24. Defendants committed the following alleged acts knowingly, intentionally and willfully against the Plaintiff, the FLSA Collective Plaintiffs, and the Class.

25. At all relevant times, Defendants knowingly and willfully failed to pay Plaintiff and similarly situated employees at least the New Jersey minimum wage for each hour worked.

26. At all relevant times, Defendants knowingly and willfully failed to pay Plaintiff his lawful overtime compensation of one and one-half times (1.5x) their regular rate of pay for all hours worked over forty (40) in a given workweek.

27. While employed by Defendants, Plaintiff was not exempt under federal and state laws requiring employers to pay employees overtime.

28. Defendants failed to keep full and accurate records of Plaintiff's hours and wages.

29. Upon information and belief, Defendants failed to keep full and accurate records in order to mitigate liability for their wage violations. Defendants never furnished any notice of their use of tip credit.

30. At all relevant times, Defendants knowingly and willfully failed to provide Plaintiff and similarly situated employees with Time of Hire Notice reflecting true rates of pay and payday as well as paystub that lists employee's name, employer's name, employer's address and telephone number, employee's rate or rates of pay, any deductions made from employee's wages, any allowances claimed as part of the minimum wage, and the employee's gross and net wages for each pay day.

31. Defendants knew that the nonpayment of overtime pay would financially injure Plaintiff and similarly situated employees and violate state and federal laws.

Plaintiff SHAN HUI CHEN

32. From on or about January 28, 2017 to May 04, 2017, Plaintiff SHAN HUI CHEN was employed by Defendants to work as a fry wok at 145 Main Street, West Orange, NJ 07052.

33. From on or about January 28, 2017 to May 04, 2017, Plaintiff SHAN HUI CHEN's regular work schedule ran from 11:00-23:00 for twelve (12) hours a day from Tuesdays through Sundays for six (6) days a week, with Mondays off for a total of 72.00 hours each week.

34. At all relevant times, Plaintiff SHAN HUI CHEN did not have a fixed time for breakfast, lunch, or dinner.

35. In fact, Plaintiff SHAN HUI CHEN had ten (10) minutes to eat and even then he was on call, meaning that if customer's order came, his break stopped and he had to deliver.

36. From on or about January 28, 2017 to February 28, 2017, Plaintiff SHAN HUI CHEN was paid a flat compensation at a rate of three thousand three hundred dollars ($3300.00) per month.

37. From on or about March 01, 2017 to April 30, 2017, Plaintiff SHAN HUI CHEN was paid a flat compensation at a rate of three thousand seven hundred dollars ($3300.00) per month.

38. From on or about May 01, 2017 to May 04, 2017, Plaintiff SHAN HUI CHEN was paid a flat compensation at a rate of between three hundred ($300.00) to four hundred dollars ($400) per month.

39. At all relevant times, Plaintiff SHAN HUI CHEN was not paid overtime pay for overtime work.

40. Throughout his employment, Plaintiff SHAN HUI CHEN was not compensated at least at one-and-one-half his promised hourly wage for all hours worked above forty (40) in each workweek.

COLLECTIVE ACTION ALLEGATIONS

41. Plaintiff brings this action individually and as class representative individually and on behalf of all other and former non-exempt employees who have been or were employed by the Defendants for up to the last three (3) years, through entry of judgment in this case (the “Collective Action Period”) and whom were not compensated at their promised hourly rate for all hours worked and at one and one half times their promised work for all hours worked in excess of forty (40) hours per week (the “Collective Action Members”).

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

42. Plaintiff brings his NJWHL claims pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure (“Fed. R. Civ. P.”) Rule 23, on behalf of all non-exempt personnel employed by Defendants on or after the date that is two years before the filing of the Complaint in this case as defined herein (the “Class Period”).

43. All said persons, including Plaintiff, are referred to herein as the “Class.”

44. The Class members are readily ascertainable. The number and identity of the Class members are determinable from the records of Defendants. The hours assigned and worked, the positions held, and the rate of pay for each Class Member is also determinable from Defendants' records. For purpose of notice and other purposes related to this action, their names and addresses are readily available from Defendants. Notice can be provided by means permissible under said Fed. R. Civ. P. 23.

Numerosity

45. The proposed Class is so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable, and the disposition of their claims as a class will benefit the parties and the Court. Although the precise number of such persons is unknown, and the facts on which the calculation of the number is presently within the sole control of the Defendants, upon information and belief, there are more than forty (40) members of the class.

Commonality

46. There are questions of law and fact common to the Class which predominate over any questions affecting only individual class members, including:

- a. Whether Defendant employed Plaintiff and the Class within the meaning of the NJWHL;
- b. Whether Plaintiff and Class members are entitled to and paid overtime at their promised hourly wage under the NJWHL;
- c. Whether Defendants maintained a policy, pattern and/or practice of failing to provide requisite statutory meal periods;
- d. Whether Defendants provided paystubs detailing the rates of pay and credits taken towards the minimum wage to Plaintiff and the Rule 23 class on each payday; and
- e. At what common rate, or rates subject to common method of calculation was and is Defendants required to pay the Class members for their work.

Typicality

47. Plaintiff's claims are typical of those claims which could be alleged by any member of the Class, and the relief sought is typical of the relief that would be sought by each member of the Class in separate actions. All the Class members were subject to the same corporate practices of Defendants, as alleged herein, of failing to pay minimum wage or overtime compensation. Defendants' corporate-wide policies and practices affected all Class members similarly, and Defendants benefitted from the same type of unfair and/or wrongful acts as to each Class member. Plaintiff and other Class members sustained similar losses, injuries and damages arising from the same unlawful policies, practices and procedures.

Adequacy

48. Plaintiff is able to fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Class and have no interests antagonistic to the Class. Plaintiff is represented by attorneys who are experienced and competent in representing Plaintiffs in both class action and wage-and-hour employment litigation cases.

Superiority

49. A class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of the controversy, particularly in the context of wage-and-hour litigation where individual Class members lack the financial resources to vigorously prosecute a lawsuit against corporate defendants. Class action treatment will permit a large number of similarly situated persons to prosecute their common claims in a single forum simultaneously, efficiently and without the unnecessary duplication of efforts and expenses that numerous individual actions engender. Because the losses, injuries and damages suffered by each of the individual Class members are small in the sense pertinent to a class action analysis, the expenses and burden of individual litigation would make it extremely difficult or impossible for the individual Class members to redress the wrongs done to them. Further, important public interests will be served by addressing the matter as a class action. The adjudication of individual litigation claims would result in a great expenditure of Court and public resources; however, treating the claims as a class action would result in a significant saving of these costs. The prosecution of separate actions by individual members of the Class would create a risk of inconsistent and/or varying adjudications with respect to the individual members of the Class, establishing incompatible standards of conduct for Defendants and resulting in the impairment of Class members' rights and the disposition of their interests through actions to which they were not parties. The issues in this action can be decided by means of common, class-wide proof. In addition, if appropriate, the Court can, and is empowered to, fashion methods to efficiently manage this action as a class action.

50. Upon information and belief, Defendants and other employers throughout the state violate the New Jersey Labor Law. Current employees are often afraid to assert their rights out of fear of direct or indirect retaliation. Former employees are fearful of bringing claims because doing so can harm their employment, future employment, and future efforts to secure employment. Class actions provide class members who are not named in the complaint a degree of anonymity which allows for the vindication of their rights while eliminating or reducing these risks.
